National Seminar for Research Scholars and Students on

Emerging Trends in Democratic Governance: Artificial Intelligence, Public Administration, Policing, Judicial Governance and Inclusive Development

The Context

Democratic governance in the twenty-first century is undergoing significant transformation due to technological advancement, institutional reforms, changing citizen expectations and emerging socio-economic challenges. In India, the growing use of Artificial Intelligence, digital technologies, data-driven governance and e-governance is creating new opportunities for transparency, efficiency, accountability and citizen-centric public service delivery system. At the same time, concerns relating to privacy, cyber security, digital inequality, ethical technology use and institutional accountability require careful attention.

In this context, the proposed National Seminar for Research Scholars and Students on “Emerging Trends in Democratic Governance: AI, Public Administration, Policing, Judiciary & Inclusive Development” seeks to provide an academic platform for students, research scholars, different personnel to exchange ideas and research findings. The seminar will focus on integrating technological and institutional innovations with constitutional values, social justice, democratic participation and inclusive development.

THEMES

- Artificial Intelligence and Democratic Governance
- Public Administration and Governance
- Policing and Internal Security
- Judiciary, Constitution and Rule of Law
- Inclusive Development
- Emerging Dimensions of Democratic Governance

About the Department

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Sri Venkateswara University has a distinguished legacy of academic excellence, advanced research, intellectual engagement, and public service. The Department was established in 1970 with the introduction of the M.A. in Political Science programme. Initially functioning under the administrative control of the Department of Economics, it attained independent departmental status in February 1971, under the visionary leadership of the then Vice-Chancellor, Dr. D. J. Reddy.

Over the decades, the Department has evolved into one of the largest and most prominent academic departments in the University campus. It has made remarkable contributions to higher education and research, with an impressive record of 163 Ph.D. degrees, 153 M.Phil degrees, and 11 Post-Doctoral Fellowships (PDFs) awarded to scholars to date. These achievements reflect the Department's sustained commitment to academic excellence, advanced research, and the development of scholars in the fields of Political Science and Public Administration.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration has a distinguished record of academic excellence, with many students and alumni achieving prestigious positions through UPSC, including IAS and IPS, as well as Group-I and Group-II services through APPSC. The Department promotes intellectual exchange through national and international conferences, seminars, webinars, workshops, symposiums, training programmes and other academic activities, fostering interdisciplinary learning and engagement with contemporary issues. With its strong academic and research environment, the Department nurtures critical thinking, leadership, professional competence, democratic values, and a spirit of public service. Its distinguished alumni have
